Drainage Study Website & Comment Cards Now Available

Comment cards and a website devoted to the Lafourche Parish Drainage Study are now available as part of the process of developing a Drainage Master Plan for Lafourche Parish. T. Baker Smith, the firm in charge of the study, launched the website in late 2010, and comment cards are now available at all three Lafourche Parish Government offices as well as all parish libraries and senior centers.

The website, <http://www.lafourchedrainagestudy.com>, includes parish maps, details about the study itself, information on the project team working on the study, and a calendar of events related to the study. Additionally, the website allows for residents to submit their comments regarding drainage in their area.

“We are asking residents to help contribute directly to this study,” said Parish President Charlotte Randolph. “No one knows more about their own drainage issues than a resident who’s been living in the same place for years. Through the comment cards and the website, residents can make sure their site-specific input is factored in to the overall study.”

Residents without internet access to submit drainage comments through the website can pick up a comment card at their local Lafourche Parish Public Library branch or at any Senior Citizens Center throughout the parish. The card can be filled out and then mailed to the address listed on the card itself.
